

Brianna Rosemarie Aldridge Bio

Brianna Rosemarie Aldridge was born October 26th, 1998 in Albuquerque, New Mexico. She is a self-employed, full-time oil painter, as well as a stay-at-home mother. Brianna received her associates degree in Fine Arts from Central New Mexico Community College, in the Fall of 2020. She was also president of Central New Mexico Community College Art Works (club), and a work study for the campus ceramic and art studio. Brianna is also one of fifty students in the United states to be a recent recipient of the Coca-Cola-sponsored New Century Workforce Pathway Scholarship, scoring the highest academically in New Mexico. This will be Brianna's first exhibition since receiving her two-year studio art concentrated degree.
